

How many pages can I print per semester?

When classes are in session, enrolled students will be given an allowance of 100 black and white sheets each semester. This is the equivalent of $4 of printing. Once you have exceeded this allotment, you will be charged for each additional page printed at four cents per page. In addition, faculty will have a 250-page allotment for any printing they do in a public lab, the library, or in a classroom that has a printer. Faculty are encouraged to use department printers when printing a large volume of pages.
